CONFESSED TO STEALING WIRE

"Spike" Hays Boasted at His Boarding House of the Purloining

BEATS HIS BOARD BILL

And Stirs up Wrath of Landlady
Who "Tells All"—History
Repeats Itself

Now Mrs. George Hatfield is mad, and when she becomes angry better have a care. The aforesaid lady conducts the Main Street House in North Main street, an inn of the type made famous by Dickens. And when we say she runs it, we mean she "runs" it; she is the "Big Noise" and her word is law, and there is no appeal to a higher court. Unlike Landlord Higgins in Ezra Kendall's new play, who when asked who runs the hotel replies "I own it,—but the boarders run it." Mrs. Hatfield has ideas of her own.

And in this instance the proprietress of the Main Street House is justified in her wrath. Two boarders left last week "between two days" owing her a board bill. One of the fellows who "tripped the board fantastic" was none other than "Spike" Hays, the lineman taken into custody last week by the officers, when it was thought he knew something of the wholesale purloining of telephone wire and supplies here.

Now comes the human interest phase of the story.

In critical times of the past—take for instance during the strenuous reign of the "Louies" of France, when people were warring against each other, invariably it followed that once a woman's anger was stirred to a "whipped cream," it proved the jumping off place for a number who loafed around the throne. Without a doubt they are the "power behind the throne." Hold secrets? Why of course they can, but once you double cross them they will turn loose and tell three times as much as you thought they knew.

(This is all by the way of introductory to the important or "meaty" part of the story. Enters now Mrs. Hatfield and "Spike" Hays.)

Says Mrs. Hatfield (now that "Spike" nailed her for a week's board and lodging.)

"That fellow fooled me worse than I was ever fooled in my life. But I might have known that there was something wrong, 'cause when he first come here he went by the name of Hall. He done a lot of blowing around here about that wire stealing. Why, he told right in here that he sold thirty dollars worth one night, and then went out and spent the money having a good time. The next day he came to me and says, 'Mother, I want to borrow a dollar,' and I asked him what he did with the thirty dollars junk money; he said he blew it in—easy come, easy goes. The night of the day the officers had him up sweating him, he left owing me three dollars. Oh! if he ever comes back, I won't do a thing to him. He'll have to board with Sheriff King a while."

And thus it seems, Hayes is the confessed purloiner of telephone wire, supplies, junk, etc., etc.

MORAL: Always square everything with every woman in time of hostilities; it's easy to "con" men and get through—but never a woman.

LARGE AMOUNT OF CORN GATHERED IN INDIANA

Statistics gathered from sixty-four counties in Indiana this year show that during 1906, 4,020,233 acres were planted in corn and that the yield was 65,076,971 bushels. This year the number of acres planted in corn is 4,788,855 and the yield will be 105,549,065. The report shows that Rush county has 68,916 acres in corn and the yield will be 3,345,150 bushels as against 2,815 acres and 3,260,421 bushels last year.

OLD PIONEER WAS A FORMER RESIDENT HERE

Hiram Rhue, Who Died in Hancock County, Once Lived in Rush

Of the death of Hiram Jackson Rhue, who died in Hancock county, the Greenfield Tribune says in part: "His father served in the war of 1812 under General Andrew Jackson in a number of his memorable campaigns. Eighty-five years ago when Mr. Rhue was a small boy, his parents moved to Washington county this State, and ten years later moved to Rush county, down on Big Flatrock, near Moscow. From there they moved to Hancock county, two miles north of Maxwell."

FRED FEARNOTS RETURNED HOME

Six Rushville Lads Were
Adrift in a Half Breed
Prairie Schooner

HAD TO KILL A HORSE

Noble Steed Sank Into His Own
Grave in a Missouri
Sand-bar

Everything went along as smoothly as a Fred Fearnot story of boy adventure until Missouri was reached, and in that "State of Show-Me," the six adventurous Rushville boys, who left here four weeks ago to spend the winter in the wilds of Arkansas hunting and fishing, became at once stalled, disgusted, homesick and weary—now they can be found at their respective addresses in this city.

The party was composed of Joe Todd, Ed and Dora VanSickle, Carl Readle, John Glover and Cliff Morrell. They left here in a home made half breed prairie schooner and with two noble steeds that cost $28. Many were the experiences they had during the long four weeks they drove their team towards the southland. Bad weather put a damper on their enthusiasm, and several in the party were on the point of mutinying when things began to happen that put the "Slow Train to Arkansas" on a bloomer.

In crossing a small stream, they struck a sand bar and one of the horses began to sink, and before they could do anything, it was in the sand up to its neck. The boys managed to get the other horse ashore, but they were obliged to shoot the other steed who "sank so low" that he was of no earthly good.

The "saved horse" was sacrificed for six dollars, and the "Dick Dare-devils" lost no time in making for the nearest railway station and returning to home, sweet home.

HEAD LAID OPEN WITH A HARD BLOW

Nine-Year-Old School Boy Attacks Another With a Club

While coming home from school Monday forenoon, Fred Osborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elva Osborn, of North Morgan street was attacked by Teddy Newman and suffered a painful wound in the head which required the services of Dr. D. R. Dean, who took four stitches in the gash. Newman used a piece of a broom handle. Both are school boys about nine years of age.

GLENWOOD THE TOWN OF THE HOUR

Thursday Will Mark New Birth of a Commercial
Awakening

BIG CROWDS EXPECTED

The Doors of Hospitality Will be Taken Off the Hinges

Thursday is the big day in Glenwood. It promises to eclipse by fifty-seven suns anything the ambitious little town has ever attempted. The new born State bank will be opened for the first time, and the long stretches of cement sidewalk will be christened with a bottle of Apollinaris water. (The influence of the W. R. O. reaches even unto Glenwood.)

A great stock and grain exhibit is planned, and unless present signs fail, it is going to be a high class show with exhibitors from both Fayette and Rush counties.

The horn of plenty will be turned "inside out" and the latch string will not only hang out, but the doors will be taken completely off the hinges.

Addison Harris, of Indianapolis; Congressman Watson, of this city, and Hon. Francis T. Roots, of Connersville, will all be present and make brief addresses.

If the weather guesser is not off his base we are going to have good weather and this fact will insure a big gathering. All the lime light will be turned on Glenwood Thursday marking its new birth of a commercial awakening.

MAN WAITED ALL NIGHT FOR WIFEY

Said She Was "Alive and on the Inside" of the Wilhelm
Home

There was another inning in the James Whitcomb Riley Wilhelm affair last night. A poor, belated husband, who declared his wife was "alive and on the inside" sat outside the Wilhelm home and did a vigil all the night. The police were again called, but they are caloused against such troubles.

The Wilhelm's are moving away today—where, the billing clerk refused to divulge.

MOTHER SLEPT ON DANGER LINE

With Her Little Babe, the Plucky Woman Was at the Front

LEFT RUSHVILLE TODAY

Mrs. Emma Wilkie, a "Grand Old Woman" Leaves For the Southland to Live

Mrs. Emma Wilkie, for years a respected resident of Rushville, left today to make her future home in North Carolina. That she will be sorely missed is putting it lightly, for Mrs. Wilkie can well be called the "Mother" of many families here. As a nurse they will remember her untiring efforts in caring for the afflicted and as a seamstress they will miss her neat sewing.

Yesterday afternoon a number of her friends pleasantly surprised her at her home in North Perkins street, and remembered her with a substantial donation before her departure.

Mrs. Wilkie is a remarkable woman in many respects; although well advanced in years, she still retains all her faculties and her stories of the war times and other old, old reminiscences were always interesting, for she had a remarkable memory. The aged lady was almost in the thickest of the fray and one night slept between the fighting lines of the Union and Confederate armies, with a little babe held snugly to her breast, a blanket being their only shelter.

Mrs. Wilkie took more interest in the war than the average man, and was an enthusiastic Unionist. Capt. J. B. Reeves says he never knew a more patriotic woman in his life.

Nothing but pleasant memories of a "Grand Old Woman" remain here among her friends, who were deeply grieved to see her leave.

SHIPPING RULE IN FORCE MONDAY

Shippers Desiring Cars For Interstate Shipment Must Fill Out Blanks

Commencing Monday a shipper who desires a car for interstate shipment, must fill a blank application, showing late, shipping point, route and character of freight. No telephone nor verbal orders can be considered. There is a heavy penalty for applying for a car, except for boni-fide purposes. These application papers are subsequently filed with the authorities.

The object of this rule is to prevent the loss of time in moving cars, and to make a record that will make rebating an impossibility.

While the rule may work a present inconvenience to some shippers, the end will prove beneficial to all, as it is calculated that it will expediate car movements at least fifteen per cent.

A SWEET, SWEET STORY; TWO HONEY CONVERTS

The girls in Rush county evidently have a fondness for honey, says the Shelbyville News. Moscow, famed for its Honey, today has two more additions due to the buzzing bee, a relative of Dan Cupid. Last Thursday James Honey was united in marriage to Miss Zona Shoppelle, a fair Moscow damsel. Sunday, the brother, Ted Honey, was married to Maggie Miller. Like the "fruit" the bees make, the Honeys are among the best of Rush county's products and the two Misseez, again as the honey, are the sweetest the county affords.

DAN CUPID PLAYS WITH HEARTS OF AGED COUPLE

George Carr, 70, and Sarah M. Stewart, 61, to Unite in Holy Bonds

The saying that Cupid plays only with the hearts of the young and foolish was proven to be untrue today when George Carr, who has just passed his three score and ten milestone in life, and Miss Sarah M. Stewart, who has waited sixty-one summers for the object of her love, were issued a marriage license by the county clerk.

WOODMEN ARE OFF FOR FALMOUTH

To See Thirty-One New Neighbors Initiated and Camp
Instituted

Dr. J. G. Lewis, Elberry Pea, J. P. Stech, Al. G. Robertson, Fred Wilson, Walter Hoard and a number of other local Woodmen will go to Falmouth tonight and assist in instituting a new camp of Modern Woodmen at that place. The camp will be organized with thirty-one charter members, and after the ceremony of adoption is over, banquet will be given. The Connersville degree team will do the work. Charley Wright, from this city, will take the work.

GREAT ORGANISTS AND NOTED ORGANS

Was Mrs. C. H. Gilbert's Interesting Paper Before Ladies'
Musicales

The Ladies Musicales met at the court house Monday afternoon and a feature of the interesting meeting was a paper on "Famous Organs and Noted Organists," by Mrs. C. H. Gilbert. The reader gave an interesting bit of organ history and some sidelights on Alexander Guilman, the greatest living organist, who is classed as the modern Bach, and whom she heard at St. Louis.

Miss Olive Buell was leader, and the following program given: Instrumental duet, Misses Jessie Kitchen and Ethel Amos; vocal duet, Mrs. Ralph Payne and Alice Norris; vocal solo, Mrs. Ralph Payne; vocal quartette, Alice Norris, Lenora Norris, Mrs. Ralph Payne and Mrs. Joseph Clark; vocal duet, Mrs. G. P. McCarty and Mrs. Joseph Clark.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

A local merchant had a great stack of boxes in front of his place of business for several days, and although they were valued at from $1.50 to $2.00, they were becoming an "eyesore" to him. He contemplated having them hauled away, when a lady from the country stopped and inquired what they were worth. Not wishing to lose the sale he said he would sacrifice the entire lot at seventy-five cents. She replied that she would give fifty cents. (Had he asked $1 she would have offered seventy-five cents.) Rather than leave them on the sidewalk any longer, he accepted the fifty cent offer. Her husband came with a large farm wagon and while he was loading the boxes, the good wife hustled into the store and laid down a fifty cent piece. She waited several minutes as if she had some change coming, and when the proprietor asked her if there was "any thing else," she replied:

"Why lands sake, yes, I want my trading stamps."

MANY THINGS ARE BEING LOST

By Not Being a Christian Was Thought Contained in Pastor's Discourse

THREE ADDED TO CHURCH

The Subject Tonight "The Unpardonable Sin, Can it be Committed Today?"

There were three additions at the Main Street Christian church Monday evening, and the interest is growing from night to night. Rev. R. W. Abberley discussed last night, "The Cost of Not Being a Christian," in which he said that people in contemplating the worth of life ought to consider not only the gains but the loss. "There are many things it costs us in not being a Christian," said he, "it costs the rest which comes by faith. Men may say they have peace and are happy and satisfied, but the soul cannot be satisfied without God. Some think they can silence a conscience, but they can not. Only our conscience will be at ease when His protecting arms are about us."

"It costs the joy of repentance," declared the pastor. "There is joy among the angels of God over a sinner that repents, and there is also joy on earth. Joy comes in consciousness of being a conqueror over sin, and the as the enchain, we go on our way rejoicing, after we have become a Christian and the sun shines brighter and the flowers are more beautiful, but if we don't trust God we miss these blessings."

"Another thing it costs by not being a Christian," said he, "is the privilege of personal obedience, and we cannot know this joy of obedience to the Heavenly Father unless we are conscious of a duty done by personal obedience. We also lose the blessing of God's favor upon our life; we cannot have His fellowship, but we must be in harmony with His divine will before we can have it."

"It costs Christ's precious friendship also," said he, "when we say we are a friend of Christ unless we are doing His will, we dispute His own words, for He has said that we are not His friend if we do not do His will. Our destiny is determined by our friendship of Jesus. We lose the joy of Christ's acknowledgement," said Rev. Abberley, "if we are not a Christian. Jesus has promised if we confess Him, he will confess us before the angels of God. He will know us as individuals and our name will be written in the Book of Life. If we are Christians we will have no doubt about our names being written there."

"Lastly," said the pastor, "it cost the promise of eternal life, if we are not a Christian. There is no other way but through Christ to be saved, and we have no hope in anything unless our feet are planted on the Rock of Ages. He alone broke the bonds of death asunder and if we have no faith in Him we have no hope of eternal life and we are out in the darkness."

The pastor will discuss tonight "The Unpardonable Sin, Can it be Committed Today?" This is a question over which there has been much comment and discussion and Rev. Abberley will attempt to answer the question from a Bible standpoint.

The solo sang by Prof. Frank M. Charlton, entitled "The Song my Mother Sang," was very impressive and appropriate as are all his solos. The large chorus under his direction, rendered excellent music from night to night.

ERROR MADE TASK AT TREASURER'S OFFICE EASY

Newby Newhouse at the county treasurer's office, says the announcement made in the Daily Republican that a week ago yesterday was the last day for paying taxes, proved a blessing, for it divided the grand final rush into two days.

NATION LOOKS ON

Tendencies In the National Campaign Next Year May Be Noted Today.

POLITICAL FORECASTERS

Are Setting All Their Wires to Catch the Trend of the Wind From Various Quarters.

In Several States Issues Are Involved Which May Have an Important Bearing.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The elections which take place in thirteen states today may develop some indication of possible tendencies in the national campaign of next year. The fact that contests affecting the national congress are promised in but a few instances has a somewhat deterring influence, but the more astute of the political forecasters expect to find some signs which will be significant if not determinative.

There are ten general state elections. The keenest interest felt centers in the local combats in New York city, Cleveland, San Francisco and Salt Lake city. In New York the struggle between Tammany and the fusion ticket is regarded as of vast significance, and most of the wagers, few and small at best, turn upon the outcome in that contest.

Next to the New York battle in popular interest comes the municipal contest in Cleveland, O. Both Mr. Burton and Mr. Johnson are personally known here, the former being a member and the latter a former member of the house of representatives, and the interest is personal as well as political.

Salt Lake receives attention because of the prominence of the Mormon question, and San Francisco on account of recent occurrences in connection with the administration of the affairs of that city.

In Massachusetts, Maryland, Mississippi, Rhode Island, Kentucky and New Jersey governors will be chosen, and in all of them except New Jersey, full state tickets.

In Virginia, New York, Pennsylvania and Nebraska the elections will be for inferior state officers or for members of the legislature or county offices.

BOTH SIDES CONFIDENT

The Contest in Kentucky Promises to Be Unusually Close.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 5.—The day of election for a full set of state officers in Kentucky and a complete ticket of city and county officers for Louisville and Jefferson county finds everything serene after one of the hardest-fought campaigns in the memory of political leaders. The interest throughout the state is intense and the word generally is that an unusually heavy vote is being cast.

Extraordinary precautions have been taken to prevent a recurrence in Louisville of the frauds and violence which invalidated the municipal election of 1905 and made necessary the calling of the present election for city and county officers. Not only has Sheriff Bullitt sworn in a large force of special deputies, but political leaders have hired detectives from Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Chicago and St. Louis to watch the polls for repeaters from those cities.

Both sides are claiming victory by majorities running up into the thousands, but unprejudiced judges think the races for governor and mayor of Louisville will be closer than for many years past.

Local Contests in Ohio.

Cincinnati, Nov. 5.—Voters in Ohio today have the unusual experience of voting at a fall election for municipal officers only, the first time such balloting has been possible in the history of the state. While the issues have generally been those connected with local administration, touching on the enforcement of the liquor and Sunday laws, they have varied to such an extent that partisan victories will scarcely be deserving of the name. Local measures were brought to the front, as was predicted when the constitutional amendment providing for separate state and municipal elections was proposed. Boss rule and taxation were to the front in Cincinnati; Cleveland considered local matters, but was more nearly divided on party lines; Columbus has a choice of law enforcement and liberalism; a somewhat similar issue has been raised in Toledo and Dayton, and other cities have issues largely of their own choosing.

Republicans Are Confident.

Boston, Nov. 5.—The day of the state election in Massachusetts finds the Republicans expressing confidence in Governor Curtis Guild's election by 50,000 plurality. Many Democrats are claiming that Henry M. Whitney and the rest of the state ticket will win by 25,000, and leaders of the Independence League are looking for Thomas L. Hisgen to run a close second to Governor Guild and poll nearly 100,000 votes. General Charles W. Bartlett, the Anti-Merger candidate for governor, and his managers absolutely refuse to comment on the outcome. AM the campaign managers apparently agree that the Republicans will continue to control both branches of the next legislature.

The Cleveland Fight.
Cleveland, O., Nov. 5.—Both sides are claiming victory in today's contest, and both with seeming confidence. The campaign has been waged largely if not exclusively on the street railway franchise issue, Mayor Johnson, the Democratic nominee, who is seeking a fourth term, demanding 3-cent fare, and Congressman Theodore E. Burton, Republican nominee, favoring immediate settlement of the street railway controversy on a basis of no less than seven tickets for 25 cents.

At Mayor Johnson's headquarters today his election is claimed by 15,000. Republican leaders claim Burton's election by 5,000 to 8,000.

The Issues at Toledo.
Toledo, O., Nov. 5.—Interest in the elections here today is centered in the mayoralty contest. Brand Whitlock, the present incumbent of that office, has made a campaign for re-election on a 3-cent street railway platform, while his chief opponent, R. A. Bartley, the Republican candidate, has made a campaign on a platform declaring for a stricter observance of anti-saloon laws.

A Mere Formality.
Jackson, Miss., Nov. 5.—Today's election will put the formal finish to a picturesque struggle for governor which began a year ago and which was really decided three months ago at the Democratic primaries. Two primaries were necessary. E. F. Noel finally winning. The prospects are that less than half and possibly only 25 per cent of the normal vote will be polled.

Nebraska Not Excited.
Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 5.—It is the belief of political managers that the vote today will be the lightest cast in Nebraska for ten years. Interest throughout the campaign has been slight.

A Loyal Repeater.
New York, Nov. 5.—Rather than reveal the identity of the politician who induced him to falsely register in two election districts, Joseph Healey accepted a sentence of not less than four years and six months and not more than four years and eleven months in prison. Healey was told by Judge Rosalsky several days ago that if he would give up the man higher up, he would save himself. He was sent to the Tombs for several days to have an opportunity to consider the offer, but when brought into court he declined to implicate anyone in his trouble.

Indian Troubles Subsiding.

Pierre, S. D., Nov. 5.—Both the Utes and Sioux are quiet, according to a telephone message received here from the Cheyenne Indian agency. A report was circulated here that the Sioux were threatening to cause trouble out of sympathy for the Utes, who are dissatisfied with the distribution of rations and other matters, but the agency authorities promptly denied that there was any threat of trouble by the Sioux.

Thought He Was Jealous.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 5.—Joe Dean, an eighteen-year-old boy, called July Johnson, a girl also in her teens, to the door of her boarding house last night, and shot her through the abdomen. He then shot himself in the temple. Both died. Jealousy is said to have been the cause.

Chaotic Government.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 5.—It is announced here that the tour of inspection just concluded by the minister of ways and communications through southern Russia, the Caucasus, Turkestan and central Asia has revealed complete chaos in the railroad system. The statement is made that the railroads are practically in the hands of the revolutionaries and that plans for armed uprisings are spreading everywhere.

On a Mission of Friendship.

Mexico City, Tex., Nov. 5.—A. B. Butler, special agent of the United States government, is in this city on a mission of friendship. He is to work in the interest of government trade relations between the United States and Mexico. He will look over the trade conditions of the entire country, inquiring into those features which should interest the merchants of the United States and report in what way conditions can be improved.

The Perils of the Sea.

St. John's, N. F., Nov. 5.—It is feared that many lives were lost in the last heavy gale. Three Newfoundland fishing schooners are missing and four French vessels belonging to the St. Pierre banking fleet have not reported. Wreckage washed ashore on the southern coast indicates that the schooner Orion was lost. She carried a crew of eighteen men, all of whom are missing.

Woman on Trial for Murder.

Brazil, Ind., Nov. 5.—Mrs. Rose Glasco, widow of the young medical student, Edward Glasco, is on trial in the circuit court here for the murder of her husband in this city on Sept. 6. It is the first time in the criminal annals of Clay county that a woman has been placed on trial for murder.

Potatoes, after being steeped in sulphuric acid and pressed hard, are used in the manufacture of billiard balls and imitation meerscham pipes.

BANKERS HOPEFUL

The Feeling In New York Now Is That the Worst Is Probably Over.

STOCK MARKET BUOYANT

This Condition Is One That Reflects the General Feeling of a Restoration of Confidence.

There Are Still Factors In the Situation, However, That Require Watching.

New York, Nov. 5.—The buoyancy of the stock market yesterday reflected the ultimate decision of large bankers to support the two institutions, the Trust Company of America and the Lincoln Trust company, which have been subjected to the most severe runs during the last two weeks. The day was one of doubt and conflicting rumors, and the fact that it passed without an adverse development is an evidence that the worst of the situation is probably over. The agreement was reached largely through the influence of Mr. Morgan, by which the trust companies will co-operate in the future for their mutual protection and the directors will lend the assistance of their personal fortunes to meet immediate necessities. The assets of the two threatened companies were carefully gone over by experts on Saturday and Sunday, and both of them were found to be solvent, with a considerable surplus after paying all claims and providing for the capital stock. Under these circumstances it was thought advisable by the big men to support them cordially if they would adhere to thoroughly conservative methods of direction in the future. The achievement of these results, with the steady upward movement of the stock market till near the close, is believed to mark the turn of the crisis. The loss of $30,000,000 in cash by the clearing house banks according to their Saturday statement, in spite of $30,000,000 which had been poured into their tills during the week from the treasury, was expected to have a disturbing effect. It was a worse showing than will be possible again in the face of the heavy arrivals of gold. Gold engagements since the beginning of the present movement now amount to $32,000,000, which would more than bridge the loss in surplus reserve last week. The disturbances which are sweeping over the exchange market and arousing concern in foreign markets, were indicated by the rise of foreign exchange in New York considerably above the point at which gold could profitably be imported.

The fact that it is still coming this way indicates the determination of New York bankers to strengthen their position, even at a loss. The high rate for bills was caused by the demand for exchange to cover the arrivals of gold.

Reports from Washington indicate that the national banking situation throughout the country is sound, and the efforts of the comptroller of the currency to get notes into circulation are meeting with considerable success. The fact that today, election day, is a legal holiday in New York, will afford time for further perfecting plans for mutual support which are well under way. The executive committee of the Merchants' association passed formal resolutions in which confidence in the financial institutions of the city was expressed. Members of the association were advised to do all in their power to spread this feeling.

A Chain of Failures.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 5.—Three Kansas banks have been forced to close their doors owing to the failure of the Bankers' Trust company of Kansas City, Mo., on Oct. 28. The banks are the Coyville State bank, Coyville; the Garland State bank, Garland; and the Citizens' State bank of Mulberry, all small institutions. They had deposits with the Bankers' Trust company. Receivers will be appointed at once.

New Financial Suggestion.

Barnesville, Ga., Nov. 5.—President R. F. Duckworth of the Georgia farmers' union has addressed a letter to the secretary of the treasury asking for authority to issue certificates to the amount of $100,000,000 to be guaranteed by $200,000,000 worth of cotton to aid the Southern farmers in carrying out their holding movement.

Wronged by the State.

Pittsburg, Nov. 5.—After having served half of a ten years' sentence in the western Pennsylvania penitentiary for a crime committed by another, Robert Simpson, who was convicted in connection with a safe robbery in the Irwin, Pa., postoffice in Westmoreland county, about six years ago, will be given his freedom by the state pardon board. It has been discovered the robbery was committed by two men, both of whom are now dead.

Sailing Since March.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 5.—The four-masted ship Arthur Sewell, which left Philadelphia in March for Seattle with a cargo of coal, entered the straits today. The vessel is bringing 50,000 tons of coal for the Pacific Coast company.

The Reason Why Peninsular Stoves Are The Best.

- FIRST. They use a ton less of coal a winter than any other make; a saving of $7 to $8 per year.
- SECOND. It utilizes heat that ordinarily escapes into the chimney and adds fully one-third to the heating capacity of the stove.
- THIRD. It always insures perfect distribution of heat through the rooms.

What Roosevelt Objects to in Oklahoma's Constitutional Regulation.

Robert L. Owen, the senator to be from the new state of Oklahoma, came to Washington recently and made the president's acquaintance, says a Washington special to the New York World. "Mr. Owen," said the president, "I have only one criticism to make on the new constitution you have adopted in your state. It fails to prescribe the kind of tooth powder a true Oklahoman must use. Why this omission when it regulated everything else under the sun?"

"It was an oversight, Mr. President," said Owen apologetically. "but we reckon on fixing that by statute."

INDIAN SUMMER GIVES A YELL

Season is Now at Hand, and it is a Glorious One Indeed

SKY IS PAINTED RED

By the Great Chief Who Predominates—Peculiar to United States Climate

"About this time of the year," as the weather predictions in old almanacs used to say, look out for Indian summer. It is somewhat irregular in its advent, coming a little earlier or later at times, but it always begins in October and may run into November. It can not be called a distinct season of the year like spring, summer or winter, being only a short-lived feature of the autumn, yet it is very well defined in the popular mind, and while it lasts, probably brings as much enjoyment as any other season of the year.

As the name indicates, the season is peculiar to the United States and is best defined in the northern States. It is not known if they have any corresponding season in the southern States. As everybody in the central west knows, during Indian summer the atmosphere is hazy and dry, the sky is red the temperature mild and rain is absent for an unusual length of time. The hazy atmosphere is probably the most distinctive characteristic and the most difficult to account for.

CHARLES S. VAIL, Associate City Editor

RUSHVILLE INDIANA, NOVEMBER 5, 1907.

Oklahoma is new and different in many ways. The governor, for example, ordered the banks to close temporarily. The wisdom of this does not appear now. It seems to us that the banks in this region voluntarily adopted a better plan.

The commissioner of pensions at Washington explains the delay in granting service pensions under the law of February, 1907. He says the department is literally flooded with applications, 370,000 having already been filed; that each case must be tried like a law suit; that 1600 are being allowed a day, and that the department is working as it never did before. He thinks the criticism of the veterans are unjust, and that they should possess their souls in patience.

Says Secretary Wilson: "Last year farmers of the country got from their crops in round figures $6,500,000,000. This year they will get from half a billion to a billion more, because, while crops are not as large, prices are higher. After allowing all expenditures a great part of this vast sum remains with the farmers, who put it into small banks. What other element of our people produces anything like as much wealth as this? Financiers are beginning to recognize this fact, and now when they are wanting money badly they are going to the people that have the wad."

INDIANA POLITICS

BY ROBERT G. TUCKER.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 5.—It was rumored today that members of the Protestant ministers' associations may attempt to impeach Judge Whallon of the police court and several members of the police department who attended a recent boxing match here. Rev. Joshua Stansfield, Rev. VanAuken, Rev. E. S. Schumacher and other ministers witnessed the bouts. It was supposed then that they intended to begin a crusade against boxing. The day following their visit to the ring-side it became known that Governor Hanly had asked Attorney General Bingham for an opinion as to whether or not a boxing match is a prize fight. Bingham said that it is. Rev. VanAuken is the only one of the ministers who has spoken openly on the subject, but he declares that the police who attended the fight were not upholding the law and that the time has arrived to give someone a jolt. Other ministers are mum as to what is to be done. It is expected that the governor will attempt to stop a bout here scheduled for Nov. 13.

The financial situation here is unchanged. The banks are adhering strictly to the clearing house association rules not to cash a check of more than $100 a day for any depositor. Business conditions are being altered as rapidly as possible to meet the new arrangement. The Indianapolis banks yesterday began the payment of the pension vouchers. From the pension office here $2,600,000 worth of vouchers are being sent out for payment this week. Volney T. Malott, chairman of the clearing house association, said that the vouchers will be paid as usual in currency. Many banks throughout the state have adopted a new form of draft for amounts from $1 to $10, payable at the banks here carrying its reserve fund. The drafts are payable on sight without indorsement, and are being used in the place of currency. Each is numbered and the bank issuing them keeps a careful record of them and is able to make use of its reserve without withdrawing it from the banks here.

A prospective candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor is Mayor S. E. Voris of Crawfordsville, whose friends are urging him to enter the race. It was stated today that he is seriously considering the matter and that he may make an announcement within a few weeks. Voris is known as the "shooting mayor," because of his prominence in state shooting tournaments. He is serving his second term as mayor, and is well known throughout the state as treasurer of the supreme tribe of Ben Hur. It is expected that three or four candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor will announce themselves at the Bryan banquet at Lafayette, Nov. 18, which promises to be an event of state importance. Thomas R.

It is generally believed that the expressions in the speeches recently made through the West by Secretary Taft accurately foreshadowed the purpose of the President in the matter of the tariff agitation, and an affirmative expression by him on this subject is expected in his forthcoming message to congress.

The drift of sentiment among the newspapers in the State is overwhelmingly in favor of clean primaries. This is not merely a perfunctory expression but apparently the deep feeling that animates the writers. It certainly expresses the feeling among the people. That business of all kinds as well as the idea of the public service is on a higher plane than ever before is clearly perceptible to every observer. This demand for the cleanest possible primaries is only a part of the general movement toward higher things. It is true that there has been more or less of this demand during all the past but never before in the memory of any one now living has it been so general or so peremptory. And we are glad to see that this appears in the Democratic papers that are controlled by their publishers. Counties or districts that have certain so-called normal majorities are to be considered no longer "safe," even in a national election, if the nominations are not obtained honestly and above the suspicion of chicanery of every sort.

Marshall of Columbia City; Senator L. Ert Slack of Franklin; Congressman J. A. M. Adair of Portland, and other prospective candidates have accepted invitations to deliver addresses on that occasion.

The members of the Vicksburg park monument commission, which has charge of spending an appropriation of $38,000 by the state for the erection of monuments in honor of the Indiana regiments that fought in the famous battle and siege, left here today for Vicksburg. The commission consists of Harry C. Adams and General Geo. W. McGinnis of Indianapolis; M. M. Lacey of Fountain City; John W. Sale of Fort Wayne; Lewis C. Moore of Columbus. The state will erect a separate monument in honor of each of the regiments.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

ADMITTED A JUST DANIEL.

(Shelbyville Liberal.)

R. H. Cohen has been admitted as a member of the Shelby county bar by Judge Sparks in the Shelby circuit court.

HEN WAS A KLEPTOMANIAC.

(Shelbyville Republican.)

Mrs. Nellie Brown, of Linden, while dressing a chicken, found in the gizzard twelve gold beads, each about the size of shelled peas. The beads belonged to a neighbor's little girl, who had lost them from a necklace.

Real estate values in New York city, according to the assessment figures, are increasing $1,069,970, each day.

DARLING NELLIE GRAY.
THERE'S a low, green valley on the old Kentucky shore;
Where I've whiled many happy hours away,
A-sitting and a-singing by the little cabin door,
Where lived my darling Nellie Gray.

CHORUS.
Oh, my poo, Nellie Gray, they have taken you away,
Shall I never see my darling any more?
I'm sitting by the river, and I'm weeping all the day,
For you're gone from the old Kentucky shore.

When the moon had climbed the mountain and the stars were shining, too,
Then I'd take my darling Nellie Gray,
And we'd float down the river in my little red canoe,
While my banjo so sweetly I would play.

One night I went to see her, but she's gone, the neighbors say.
The white man bound her with chain.
They have taken her to Georgia for to wear her life away,
As she toils in the cotton and the cane.

My canoe is under water, and my banjo is unstrung;
I'm tired of living any more;
My eyes shall look downward and my song shall be unsung,
While I stay on the old Kentucky shore.

My eyes are getting blinded, and I cannot see my way.
Hark! There's somebody knocking at the door.
Oh, I hear the angels calling, and I see my Nellie Gray,
Farewell to the old Kentucky shore.

CHORUS.
Oh, my darling Nellie Gray, up in heaven there they say
That they'll never take you from me any more.
I'm coming, coming, coming, as the angels clear the way,
Farewell to the old Kentucky shore.
—Anon.

CURRENT COMMENT

Speaking Across the Atlantic.

Aside from the marvelous features of the Marconi telegraph system, the best thing about it is the promise of cheeriness in talking across the ocean. The majority of people have got along very well without being called upon to pay the comparatively high rates of cabling. Still there are occasions when the cable rates do not seem extraordinary. It is not safe to count upon mail communication between New York and the countries of western Europe under about ten days. Letters may be delivered one week after date provided they hit a steamer promptly. But at certain seasons of the year there are but two or three mail steamers a week, and a letter may lose time waiting. The cable will deliver a message within twenty-four hours. Here is a saving of at least a week's delay. By a system of cable addresses persons may send a message of importance to London or a continental city for $1.50 to $2.50. A telegraph message on this continent traveling the same distance might cost half as much, and the saving of time over mail service would be less by at least one-half. For 25 to 40 cents the telegraph will beat the mail one day on land, and for eight times as much the cable will beat the ocean mails eight to ten days.

If the wireless can do service to Europe for 10 cents a word it will be relatively cheaper than land telegraphy. The rate from New York to the Pacific coast is $1 for ten words and varies from that down to 25 cents for intervening distances. Telegraph and cable lines seem to base their rate upon the actual advantage they give their patrons over the mails, and we all know that it is considerable. If the wireless comes into competition the rates may be brought down to a fair compensation to the companies for the actual work done.

The Ghost at the Peace Conference.

The peace conference met at The Hague in an atmosphere all in a tremble over war. It is impossible for the leading minds of Europe to banish the very idea of war. What peace Europe has enjoyed for upward of a century has been brought about by a concert of nations. They united to suppress certain questions for the fear that things would get beyond control. A concert for peace in the abstract they will not stand for.

Within sixty years, beginning with the republican uprisings of 1848, when every important throne on the continent was threatened, there have been five wars as the result of greed, oppression and ambition. The first peace conference was followed by wars in which the leading parties to that movement were engaged. The echoes of the last great war had not died out when this conference was called. It would be expecting too much of men with these memories to do more than seek to regulate war, the evil which to them seems inevitable. Still there is reason to hope that the selfishness of nations will be unable to provoke another war soon, and when the people shall have enjoyed many years of prosperous peace it may be that the desire to perpetuate it will outrun the notion that war is a necessity.

That verdict of $8,000 for the loss of a woman's thumb is not steep when it is considered that she might have got a millionaire under it and kept him there if the car wheel hadn't mixed in.

"Any woman can marry any man she wants," asserts Gertrude Atherton. Every day seems to bring something new for the men to worry about.

Swollen Fortunes Are The Fruit of Plunder.

By the Rev. WASHINGTON GLADDEN, Congregationalist of Columbus, O.

MOST of us have lived through periods which were clearly not critical, when the current of time lapsed GENTLY from decade to decade, with hardly a ripple, and when there were few complaints or questionings.

But such a time is not the present. ITS MOVEMENT IS SWIFT AND TUMULTUOUS. Our faiths, our philosophies, our social conventions, our political and industrial institutions, are tossed upon its plunging flood, and we are watching to see how many of them will outride the rapids.

IT IS IDLE, IT IS FATUOUS, TO HIDE FROM OURSELVES THE FACT THAT WE ARE FACING HERE IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA A SOCIAL CRISIS. THE FORCES WHICH ARE AT WORK HERE MEAN DESTRUCTION. A SOCIAL ORDER WHICH MAKES POSSIBLE THE RISE OF A HARRIMAN OR A ROCKEFELLER IS A SOCIAL ORDER WHICH CANNOT LONG ENDURE. THE SWOLLEN FORTUNES THAT MANY ARE GLOATING OVER ARE SYMPTOMS OF DISEASE.

They are not the reward of social service. THEY ARE THE FRUIT OF PLUNDER. We have made them possible only by permitting the gate of opportunity to be made narrower and the burden of toil more unrequiting for millions of the poor. They exist only BECAUSE BY OUR ACTS WE APPROVE OR BY OUR INDIFFERENCE WE CONSENT TO MONUMENTAL INJUSTICE. A SOCIETY WHICH TOLERATES SUCH CONDITIONS CANNOT LIVE.

It is because we have begun to have some dim conception of this truth that we are moving now toward the correction by law of these GREAT INJUSTICES. We must exterminate them. That is the fight in which there must be no faltering. If we would not be destroyed, we must destroy the destroyer.

FRANCIS T. ROOTS

PRESIDENT OF BANKERS' TRUST COMPANY,
SECTION OF INDIANA

Hon. Francis T. Roots, president of the Glenwood bank which opens next Thursday was recently elected president of the Bankers Trust Company section of Indiana. In accepting the office, the Connersville man made an address, full of figures and common sense, following which is part of the discourse:

"Gentlemen of the Bankers' Association: I return to you my heartfelt thanks for the distinguished honor you have conferred upon me by electing me president of the Trust company section of the State of Indiana.

"The Trust companies of the State of Indiana have shown a remarkable growth; in thirteen years they have increased in numbers to ninety-four, representing a capital of $8,500,000.00 and a deposit of $3,000,000.00. As compared with the State banks we are marching along almost side by side and showing even a greater growth in the last year, both in the increase of capital stock and in deposits.

"The report of September, 1906, disclosed the fact that the State banks had a capital of $8,489,000.00. The increase in the capital stock of the State banks in the last year amounted to $711,000.00 and $4,000,000.00 in deposits. The capital stock of the Trust companies amounts to $8,546,000.00, showing an increase in the capital stock of the Trust companies of the State of $1,500,000.00. The deposits of the Trust companies one year ago amounted to $3,800,000.00 and today them amount to $4,300,000.00, showing an increase of nearly $500,000.00. The conclusion of the whole matter is that, inasmuch as the citizens of Indiana have shown such splendid confidence in the Trust companies, they should be carefully and honestly administered. One of the greatest protections to the depositor is that no officer or director of a Trust company can borrow any of the funds of the company that they are connected with; it is a penitentiary offense, and this law should apply to all banks in the State and nation.

"There is one other subject that should have the careful consideration of the bankers of the various cities and towns of the State and that is honorable competition.

"It is perfectly proper to use all the energy and respectful persuasion to induce people to do business with you, but, at the same time, we should avoid any unfair methods toward our competitors. We should refrain from in any way speaking in a derogatory manner of our competitors, but co-operate with one another and further the financial interests of the community in which we live, and in this manner, as the clearing houses of the great cities are an element of strength one to another, so we, in smaller cities and towns, can be of equal strength one to another.

"Assuring you that I highly appreciate this honor and that I will do all in my power to more thoroughly organize the Trust companies of the State of Indiana and endeavor to unite all the Trust companies in this membership, to this end I pledge my support."

THE TIMBER DISAPPEARING

Government Forester Sounds a Timely Note of Warning.

Washington, Nov. 5.—"In twenty years the timber supply in the United States, on government reserves and private holdings, at the present rate of cutting, will be exhausted." This announcement was made by Gifford Pinchot, the government forester, who has just returned from a six-months' inspection trip, on which he traveled 10,000 miles.

In sounding his warning, Mr. Pinchot urged that the danger of the situation should not be underestimated. He said that the United States uses more timber per capita than any other country, and that every man, woman and child would be affected. He decried the policy of discounting the future of the country by failure to protect the natural resources, and he advised everyone who has not already done so to read President Roosevelt's speech at Memphis on this general subject. One-fifth of the forest area of the country is in government reserves, but Mr. Pinchot called attention to the fact that as privately owned timber lands are better than the government reserves, as a general rule, the government does not control one-fifth of the timber supply. The forest service will ask congress for more money and more men in order to extend the service, and will pursue the work of reforesting the denuded timber lands.

President Roosevelt expects to call a conference in Washington shortly of governors of states and experts in the study of natural resources. The conference will be for the purpose of developing sentiment in favor of the administration's policy of looking into the future in the matter of conserving the natural resources, such as timber, coal, oil and gas and the various minerals.

WILL BE EASY TO PAY FOR SEWERS

For Many Have Just Paid Out on the Cement Sidewalks

Many people are not familiar with sidewalk conditions in this city. Rushville has many good sidewalks, which are most all paid for. The cement pavements were constructed under the Barrett law, or the ten year payment plan, and this year, the following streets will pay out: Sexton, Main, No. 1, Main No. 2, First, Second, Third, Seventh, Morgan and Harrison streets.

With the sidewalks paid for the residents are in better condition than at any time in the past ten years, to pay for the sewers, which can be paid out on this same plan.

Rushville will soon have all modern improvements and before the citizens realize the fact they will all be paid for and we will have a city of which we can be justly proud.

The Spoilers.

By REX E. BEACH.

Copyright, 1905, by Rex E. Beach.

"Did you do that because I asked you to—because I asked you to put aside the old ways?" A wave of compassion swept over her.

"Certainly," he answered. "It didn't come easy, but—"

"Oh, I thank you," said she. "I know it is all for the best. Uncle Arthur wouldn't do anything wrong, and Mr. McNamara is an honorable man."

He turned toward her to speak, but refrained. He could not tell her what he felt certain of. She believed in her own blood and in her uncle's friends—and it was not for him to speak of McNamara. The rules of the game sealed his lips.

She was thinking again. "If only you had not acted as you did." She longed to help him now in his trouble as he had helped her, but what could she do? The law was such a confusing, intricate, perplexing thing.

"I spent last night at the Midas," she told him, "and rode back early this morning. That was a daring holdup, wasn't it?"

"What holdup?"

"Why, haven't you heard the news?"

"No," he answered steadily. "I just got up."

"Your claim was robbed. Three men overcame the watchman at midnight and cleaned the boxes."

His simulation of excited astonishment was perfect, and he rained a shower of questions upon her. She noted with approval that he did not look her in the eye, however. He was not an accomplished liar. Now, McNamara had a countenance of iron. Unconsciously she made comparison, and the young man at her side did not lose thereby.

"Yes, I saw it all," she concluded, after recounting the details. "The negro wanted to bind me so that I could not give the alarm, but his chivalry prevented. He was a most gallant dandy."

"What did you do when they left?"

"Why, I kept my word and waited until they were out of sight; then I roused the camp and set Mr. McNamara and his men right after them down the gulch."

"Down the gulch!" spoke Glenister, off his guard.

"Yes, of course. Did you think they went upstream?" She was looking squarely at him now, and he dropped his eyes. "No; the posse started in that direction, but I put them right." There was an odd light in her glance, and he felt the blood drumming in his ears.

She sent them downstream! So that was why there had been no pursuit! Then she must suspect—she must know everything! Glenister was stunned. Again his love for the girl surged tumultuously within him and demanded expression. But Miss Chester, no longer feeling sure that she had the situation in hand, had already started to return to the hotel. "I saw the men distinctly," she told him before they separated, "and I could identify them all."

At his own house Glenister found Dexty removing the stains of the night's adventure.

"Miss Chester recognized us last night," he announced.

"How do you know?"

"She told me so just now, and what's more she sent McNamara and his crowd down the creek instead of up. That's why we got away so easily."

"Well, well—ain't she a brick? She's even with us now. By the way, I wonder how much we cleaned up, anyhow—let's weigh it." Going to the bed, Dexty turned back the blankets, exposing four moosekin sacks, wet and heavy, where he had thrown them.

"There must have been $20,000 worth of what I gave Wheaton," said Glenister. At that moment, without warning, the door was flung open, and as the young man jerked the blankets into place he whirled, snatched the six shooter that Dexty had discarded and covered the entrance.

"Don't shoot, boy!" cried the newcomer, breathlessly. "My, but you're nervous!"

Glenister dropped his gun. It was Cherry Malotte, and from her heaving breast and the flying colors in her cheeks the men saw she had been running. She did not give them time to question, but closed and locked the door while the words came tumbling from her:

"They're on to you, boys—you'd better duck out quick. They're on their way up here now."

"What?"

"Who?"

"Quick! I heard McNamara and Voorhees, the marshal, talking. Somebody has spotted you for the holdups. They're on their way now, I tell you. I sneaked out by the back way and came here through the mud. Say, but I'm a sight!" She stamped her trimly booted feet and flitted her skirt.

"I don't savvy what you mean," said Dexty, glancing at his partner warningly. "We ain't done nothing."

"Well, it's all right then. I took a long chance so you could make a getaway if you wanted to, because they've got warrants for you for that sluice robbery last night. Here they are now." She darted to the window, the men peering over her shoulder. Coming up the narrow walk they saw

The four coats were dropped softly in the featherly bottom.

Voorhees, McNamara and three others.

The house stood somewhat isolated and well back on the tundra, so that any one approaching it by the plank had an unobstructed view of the premises. Escape was impossible, for the back door led out into the ankle deep puddles of the open prairie, and it was now apparent that a sixth man had made a circuit and was approaching from the rear.

"My God! They'll search the place," said Dexty, and the men looked grimly in each other's faces.

Then in a flash Glenister stripped back the blankets and seized the "pokes," leaping into the back room. In another instant he returned with them and faced desperately the candid bareness of the little room that they lived and slept in. Nothing could be hidden; it was folly to think of it. There was a loft overhead, he remembered hopefully, then realized that the pursuers would search there first of all.

"I told you he was a hard fighter," said Dexty as the quick footsteps grew louder. "He ain't no fool, neither. 'Stead of our beln' caught in the mountains, I reckon we'll shoot it out here. We should have cached that gold somewhere."

He spun the cylinder of his blackened Colt, while his face grew hard and vulture-like.

Meanwhile Cherry Malotte watched the hunted look in Glenister's face grow wilder and then stiffen into the stubbornness of a man at bay. The posse was at the door now, knocking. The three inside stood rigid and strained. Then Glenister tossed his burden on the bed.

"Go into the back room, Cherry; there's going to be trouble."

"Who's there?" inquired Dexty through the door, to gain time. Suddenly, without a word, the girl glided to the hot blast heater, now cold and empty, which stood in a corner of the room. These stoves, used widely in the north, are vertical iron cylinders into which coal is poured from above. She lifted the lid and peered in to find it a quarter full of dead ashes, then turned with shining eyes and parted lips to Glenister. He caught the hint, and in an instant the four sacks were dropped softly into the featherly bottom and the ashes raked over. The daring maneuver was almost as quick as the flash of woman's wit that prompted it and was carried through while the answer to Dexty's question was still unspoken.

Then Glenister opened the door carelessly and admitted the group of men. "We've got a search warrant to look through your house," said Voorhees.

"What are you looking for?"

"Gold dust from Anvil creek."

"All right—search away."

They rapidly scoured the premises, covering every inch, paying no heed to the girl, who watched them with indifferent eyes, nor to the old man, who glared at their every movement. Glenister was carelessly sarcastic, although he kept his right arm free, while beneath his sangroid was a thoroughly trained alertness.

McNamara directed the search with a manner wholly lacking in his former mock courtesy. It was as though he had been soured by the gall of defeat. The mask had fallen off now, and his character showed—insistent, overbearing, cruel. Toward the partners he preserved a contemptuous silence.

The invaders ransacked thoroughly, while a dozen times the hearts of Cherry Malotte and her two companions stopped, then lunged onward, as McNamara or Voorhees approached, then passed the stove. At last Voorhees lifted the lid and peered into its dark interior. At the same instant the girl cried out sharply, flinging herself from her position while the marshal jerked his head back in time to see her dashed upon Dexty.

"Don't! Don't!" She cried her appeal to the old man. "Keep cool. You'll be sorry, Dex—they're almost through."

The officer had not seen any movement on Dexty's part, but doubtless her quick eye had detected signs of violence. McNamara emerged, glowering, from the back room at that moment.

Insurance Companies Resisted.

Kansas City, Nov. 5.—That there was enough morphine in the stomach of L. H. Perkins of Lawrence, Kas., to kill a man was the statement of Dr. Walter M. Cross, city chemist, a member of the expert commission appointed by the federal court to ascertain whether Perkins had taken poison. Perkins' life was insured for $60,000, and some of the companies protested the payment of their policies on the ground that Perkins had committed suicide.

Call for More Jurors.

Rathdrum, Idaho, Nov. 5.—The special venire of men called last Tuesday to get a jury to try Steve Adams for the alleged murder of Fred Tyler in the Marble Creek country three years ago, was exhausted in the district court here yesterday afternoon, and a second venire of twenty men was ordered by Judge Wood, returnable at 2 o'clock today. There are only three of the original panel on the jury.

Disappointed Man's Suicide.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 5.—Grief-stricken because the woman he had loved married another, a well-dressed, refined appearing man, giving his name as Herbert Welch, entered apartments at the Hiawatha lodging house and, taking a revolver from a bureau, shot himself fatally in the breast. It is believed he gave an assumed name. His home is in Michigan.

Mr. BEN L. SMITH of Rushville, Writes Letter Which May be of Great Interest to Skin Sufferers of This City

For 8 or 10 years I suffered the most excruciating torture from what my physicians said was incurable, chronic, weeping eczema. I consulted, Alopeths, Homeopaths, Christian Scientists, Faith Curists, Barbers, old women and and cranks; took all their doses, but still kept "scratching." "Itching" and suffering I was a solid sore. While being blistered with a mud bath at West Baden the D. D. D. was recommended to me. I ordered a bottle, the first application allayed the pain, and I supplemented my order with 18 more bottles, as there was considerable "territory" to cover, and eczema and I parted forever. I have since recommended the remedy to twenty or more of my friends and a cure has been effected in every case. BEN L. SMITH, Rushville, Ind. Attorney at Law

What D. D. D. did in this case it ought to do for you. This wonderful remedy is now recognized by the foremost physicians and scientists as the quickest and surest cure for eczema and skin disease of any nature. This remedy is as safe and pleasant to use as pure water, and is applied directly to the afflicted parts, leaving no bad odor or sticky, salve substance. The first application gives INSTANT RELIEF, and as far as we have been able to investigate quickly effects the most astonishing and permanent cures wherever rightly used. If you are a sufferer from any kind of itch or skin disease of any nature do not fail to try this remarkable remedy. Pamphlets on skin diseases and their cure, diet, exercise, bathing, etc., free at our store. THOMAS W. LYTLE, Rushville, Ind.

UNUSUALLY BUSY

The State Railroad Commission Has a Strenuous Month Ahead of It.

MANY SERIOUS ACCIDENTS

Bulletin Calls Attention to Great Number of Accidents That Have Occurred During Recent Months.

In July, August and September the Railroads of the State Claimed 107 Victims.

Indianapolis, Nov. 5.—The Indiana railroad commission will be unusually busy for the next month. Much of its attention will be claimed by serious accidents that have occurred in the state, and the question of car distribution will take up much time. In addition to this the commission will fight the petition for injunction which has been asked by the Southern Indiana road to enjoin the commission from enforcing its rules in regard to the distribution of coal cars.

In line with its intention to investigate all serious accidents, the commission will in the future issue quarterly bulletins discussing serious railroad accidents. These bulletins will be compiled from the reports sent in by the roads in Indiana, and they will be used in connection with the investigation of accidents. The bulletins, it is expected, will point out to the commission which accidents should be investigated.

In its first bulletin, which will be published within a few days, the railroad commission calls attention to the great number of accidents that have occurred on railroads in the state in the last three months. The total number of people killed on railroads in July, August and September was 107. Of this number ninety-nine were killed by steam roads and eight were killed on electric lines. The total damage suffered by the railroad companies in the accidents of the three months was $42,863.76.

MORE WORK FOR GRAND JURY

Indianapolis City Council Subject of Interesting Inquiry.

Indianapolis, Nov. 5.—Judge Pritchard of the criminal court has instructed the grand jury to investigate the reports that the Irvington Land company has figured in some efforts to increase the salary of city employees who bought lots of it. Judge Pritchard said that reports have come to him that when measures in which persons were interested were before the council they were solicited to buy lots in the land company's addition. He declared that action on these measures was influenced by whether or not the persons concerned had bought property of the company. If any member of the council who belongs to the company has done anything to influence anyone to buy its land by promising to use his influence for him, Judge Pritchard said he could see no difference between this action and the actual passing of money. Fred Eppert, president of the council, is president of the land company, Councilman John A. Wood is secretary of the company, and Councilmen B. A. Brown and Albert F. Cottey are members. Judge Pritchard also instructed the grand jury to investigate the dealings of the Marion County Construction company with the city. It had the contract last year for repairing asphalt streets.

Hunter Shoots Aged Farmer.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 5.—While Benjamin Jackson, eighteen years old, was returning from hunting he accidentally stumbled and a shotgun he was carrying was discharged. The full load lodged in the back of Isaac Brannan, aged seventy-two years, and he will probably die. Brannan is a well-known citizen and is the head of a large family. He did not know Jackson was near him.

Hazers Punished.

Richmond, Ind., Nov. 5.—The formal expulsion of Howard Winslow and Herbert White, juniors at Earlham college, has been announced by President Kelly. The dismissal of the young men resulted from their participation in a recent hazing in which Daniel Beebe, a member of the football team, was shorn of his hair.

Shot Wife and Himself.

Indianapolis, Nov. 5.—George P. Elliott of Columbus, O., shot and killed his wife, Lillian Elliott, and then took his own life at a rooming house here. Jealousy prompted the crime. Both were about forty-five years old and were married less than three months ago.

Fatal Mine Accident.

Linton, Ind., Nov. 5.—Carl Myers, eighteen years old, a driver at the Tower Hill mine, was thrown against a trapdoor and instantly killed. He was a son of Colonel Myers of Hymara, who choked to death last January.

A Double Tragedy.

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 5.—In a jealous rage Russell Millard Braden, aged forty-seven, shot and perhaps fatally wounded his wife, Daisy Braden, aged twenty-seven, and then committed suicide.

Amusements

The Kramer skating rink will be opened next Monday night with a concert by the city band. Doors open at 7:30 o'clock.

WEEKS A HARD HITTER.

Colorado "Feather" Who Scared Attell Has Good Record.

Both the lovers of the artistic and the devotees of the realistic will find an opportunity to worship at their respective shrines next Friday night Nov. 8th, at the Grand theatre, the event being Benton's magnificent production of "The Cowboy's Girl," the play that became famous in a single night. Every effort has been made to keep this wonderful play up to its high standard of excellence and purity. The original scenery, the original story of heart interest, its wealth of mirth provoking scenes and incidents, and above all, its atmosphere of the plains, have been preserved in all their pleasing entirety. A refreshing treat is in store for all.

The Vaudelet gave an excellent performance last night and the crowds were above the average, making it necessary to give an extra performance. "The Dog Avenges His Master" was a very good picture. "The Lovemaking of the Coalman's Wife," was a comical film and kept the audience in laughter through the piece. The "Andalusian Dances" by Spanish people, is a beautiful thing and every one speaks highly of this particular part of the program. Mr. Mullin is trying every means of getting the best pictures that can be had for his patrons. This splendid program will be repeated tonight and Miss Blanche Wrennick will sing "On the Bench Beneath the Old Willow Tree."

Held on Murder Charge.

Denver, Col., Nov. 5.—Joseph Venderweide, who shot and instantly killed United States Secret Service Agent Joseph A. Walker at Durango, Col., Sunday, and William Mason, superintendent of the Hesperus coal mine, where the shooting occurred, were charged with murder jointly at Durango on information sworn to by E. J. Brennan, also a federal agent. A post-mortem examination of Walker's body disclosed that six shots had entered his body.

Trolley Cars Collide.

Richmond, Ind., Nov. 5.—In a collision between a car on the city lines and two interurbans, one a passenger, the other a freight car, a dozen persons were injured. The most seriously injured are Wilson Langley, fireman at the Eastern hospital for the insane, and Miss Florence French, a high school student.

"Ma, why does sis sing so much when Mr. Spoonamore is here?"

FRED WEEKS.

tion, Erlenborn was rematched with Weeks, the mill taking place on June 21. This bout resulted in Erlenborn's seconds throwing up the sponge in the first minute of the twentieth round in order to save a knockout.

Kid Sieger of Denver, now in the east, was Weeks' next opponent. Sieger was disposed of by the knockout route in six fast rounds.

Monte Attell came next. The fight was pulled off in the Victor Opera House on Labor day, 1906, and Attell was knocked out in six rounds.

Later a match was made with Jimmie Walsh, the New England bantam-weight champion. This fight took place at the Denver Athletic club, and Weeks earned a clean cut decision at the close of the ten round bout.

A dozen fights comprise Weeks' record. For the past month he has spent his time fishing in the mountain streams, camping out and strengthening his already rugged frame.

FRISCO'S NEW PEST.

How Golden Gate City Is Fighting Bubonic Plague.

WAGING A WAR AGAINST RATS.

Buying Them at Five Cents a Head Because They Spread Dread Disease. National and Local Authorities Working Together to Exterminate the Rodents.

San Francisco is one of the most wonderful productions of civilization, and its people are worthy of it. In less than a year and a half it has been scourged by earthquakes, by fire, by riot, by strikes, by grafters, by vice, by politicians, and, as if its cup were not full enough, the bubonic plague has now entered the gates, says a San Francisco special dispatch to the New York World.

It would seem to a stranger that this latest scourge must be the last straw; that the people could stand no more. But that is not so. Go where one will in the city there is no excitement, no apprehension. The wheels of business go on serenely, and everybody does earnestly the work that falls to his lot. When the day is done the same careless, free spirit of old plays in the theaters, clubs and cafes and hotels, and there is no crack in the laugh of those who make merry. There is no shadow on the feasting board.

But this is not because the people are in ignorance of the fact that bubonic plague is among them. Everybody knows it. Nobody could blind himself to it. It is one of the first things that a stranger learns on arriving in the city. There are yellow posters everywhere. If one does not pause to read them he will hear a little while later at his club or hotel all about it. "Any today?" he will hear a native inquire nonchalantly of another native. "Haven't heard of any."

Soon the stranger will be illuminated. What he had overheard meant "Have there been any deaths from the plague?" He may be inclined to take the next train out, but that inclination will not last long. A little yellow leaflet will tell him all about how the board of health and the government physicians have taken hold of the situation; how San Francisco is waging a war against rats, because rats are carriers and breeders of disease. Before he knows it he has a liberal education on sanitation and health and rodents.

He learns, for instance, that rats are worth 5 cents apiece and that the city will pay him that much for every rat, dead or alive, that he can turn into any of the stations which have been established throughout the city for the purpose. He forgets on the spot that he ever thought of turning away.

Here is an excerpt from one of the board of health posters, headed "Reward For Rats."

A reward of 5 cents will be paid for every rat, dead or alive, delivered at any of the following stations of the health departments between the hours of 8 and 10 a. m.: Portsmouth square, Bay and Van Ness, Thirtieth avenue and Lake street, Nineteenth and Dolores streets, Sixteenth and Bryant streets, Third street between Polson and Howard, and O'Farrell street, near Scott. They must be delivered to the stations in tightly covered cans, labeled so as to show in what neighborhood they have been caught.

Caution.—Do not touch with the hands, but use tongs or a long stick. Traps should be picked up with cloth saturated with kerosene. Drop rats immediately in kerosene or, in the absence of this, into a bucket of water, where they should remain for an hour, after which they may be placed in the cans for delivery.

Here is an example of the way the Merchants' association is dealing with the situation and the rats:

The health authorities have declared that the existence of rats in the city at the present time is a very serious menace to the health of the community. Unusual efforts are being made by the city and national authorities to procure their extermination, and to encourage their destruction a bounty of 5 cents has been offered for each body delivered at the various offices of the board of health. The co-operation of every citizen is demanded at this time. Once we had a Chinatown and a Barbary Coast, where a danger of this kind was concentrated. At the present time it is scattered broadcast throughout the city, and any rat anywhere may be the bearer of a dangerous disease to be transmitted by fleas to a human being.

Rupert Blue, passed assistant surgeon, commanding the marine hospital service and representing the government, has issued these directions and suggestions for extermination:

The employment of professional rat catchers for large establishments; trapping and poisoning by employees. The most reliable poisons for this purpose are phosphorus paste, arsenic and Danyss's rat virus. These should be placed in rat holes and rat runs and the holes carefully closed.

Exclusion of rats from buildings by closing the holes and runs in the basements and first floors. Rats enter, as a rule, by burrowing from below and through the openings in the walls or floors for the passage of plumbing. These openings should fit the pipes exactly and should be surrounded with cement or brick. Tin or sheet metal of some kind should be used to cover holes in wooden floors. Exposed food is a great attraction to rats and householders will find that "No food, no rat," is axiomatic.

And San Francisco is killing rats and putting crooks and grafting politicians and corporation bribe givers in jail all at once and never for an instant losing her head. Everywhere is that supreme confidence that everything will come out all right in the end and that there is no use worrying about it.

Concrete Pigpen.

Henry G. Shelley of Mount Joy, Pa., recently completed the erection of a concrete hogpen, says the Philadelphia Press. The entire building is of concrete, and it is believed that it is the first pigpen ever built in Pennsylvania of concrete.

OKLAHOMA ON THE FLAG.

New Star Will Not Be Added Until July 4, 1908.

While the president will issue a proclamation on Nov. 16 declaring Oklahoma a state, the new star will, under the law, not appear on the flag until July 4, 1908, says a Washington correspondent of the New York Herald. An act of congress passed in 1818 makes the provision that the new star made necessary by the admission of a state to the Union shall make its appearance on July 4 next following such admission.

A joint board of army and navy officers, of which Admiral Dewey was president, has already taken up the question of the arrangement of the stars in the flag and decided to place the forty-sixth star in the lower right hand corner of the blue field. This recommendation received the approval of the president and the secretaries of war and navy, so that the new star is already provided for.

Under this plan the forty-six stars will be arranged in six rows from left to right, the first, third, fourth and sixth rows of eight stars and the second and fifth rows of seven stars.

AIR PLANT FOR WOMAN'S HAT

Novel Style of Garniture Which Requires Cutting, as It Grows Rapidly.

Along the line of hats may be mentioned something startlingly unique, writes a correspondent of the Seattle Times from Everett, Wash. There has been made its appearance on Hewitt avenue a head covering which to those who don't know resembles merely an artistic combination of shade and color and fluffy things running hither and thither in pleasing disorder among the foliage of the graceful green trimming. But, wonder of wonders, this green trimming is alive!

It is nothing more or less than a Japanese air plant, which, as may be gathered from its name, thrives on air alone, has no dirt about its roots and requires no moisture to hasten or aid its vegetation.

This is the only hat in Everett known to need a hair cut from time to time, for the growth of the air plant is quite rapid, and were it allowed to go without frequent trimming it would hang down about its wearer's face.

CORN FROM AZTEC SEED.

Kernels Centuries Old Found in Sealed Jar in Ancient Mine.

Through the experiments made by Louis Smith of Durango, Colo., corn buried for centuries in the Aztec ruins of Colorado has been made to produce remarkable new varieties, says a Denver special dispatch to the New York World. Mr. Smith recently finished gathering a crop of corn which he raised from seed found in the ruins of the Aztecs. The yield is the heaviest ever recorded in the dry farming regions in the vicinity of Durango, the ears being of great size.

The corn is of a variety unknown to modern farming. Its kernels are coal black, the ears much larger than the ordinary corn. Last fall while digging in one of the Aztec mines Smith came upon a large earthen receptacle tightly sealed, which on being opened was discovered to contain shelled corn sufficient in quantity to plant an acre of ground, and he sowed it early in the spring.

PREPAID DIVORCES.

Pennsylvania Judge In Future Will Insist on Cash In Advance.

Judge Richard Holt of Beaver county, Pa., announced in court the other day that hereafter any person who wishes a divorce in Beaver county will have to pay for it in advance, says a Pittsburg special to the New York Times. Judge Holt has during the last few years granted many divorces and recently upon making an investigation discovered that not more than half of them had been lifted, the costs still being owed to the county officials.

Many of the couples have married without lifting the papers under the impression that the decrees were final. Judge Holt declares that the decree is not final until the costs are paid and the papers lifted and that he will compel all couples in future to pay the costs in advance when they come to his court for divorces.

Train of Kansas Products.

Kansas will send to the east in November the longest train of its products ever sent beyond the borders of the state, says the Kansas City Journal. A train of forty cars, hauled by two monster engines, will leave Topeka on Nov. 16 for Chicago, New York and Boston. The route selected is via the Santa Fe and Pennsylvania railroads. Stops will be made at Galesburg, Streator and Joliet, Ill., and at Chicago the train will be switched into the Polk street station for a day. Syl Dixon, the manager of the expedition, has secured the largest calliope in the United States for use on this trip. It can be heard five miles, and on approaching a town the operator will give the people one of the national airs with inspiring variations.

CLUBS IN CANAL ZONE

Organizations For Women's Good Formed by Miss Boswell.

HOW THEY FILL A REAL NEED.

Four Departments In Operation Cover the Home, Education, Philanthropy and Literature and Music Together. A Federation Started—Odd Domestic Tragedy.

The isthmus of Panama now has a Federation of Women's Clubs, composed of eight clubs from as many towns and made up of 360 women, says the New York Times. Miss Helen Varick Boswell, who went down from the United States at the request of the canal commission to organize these clubs for the benefit of the women now making their homes on the isthmus, arrived in New York recently from the isthmus.

"With the introduction of family life there is now a stable community on the isthmus of Panama, and it is quite different from the early days there," said Miss Boswell. "The men have their work to claim their attention, and they have their clubhouses where they can meet evenings, but there is very little to interest the women, and that is why clubs fill a real need.

"With the tropical climate they have fewer household cares than women in the United States. Eating is simpler—more cold things and fruits—and there are fewer draperies and cushions and the like to require care. They are very comfortably situated in the married quarters. There are one, two or four families in a house. The rooms are prettily decorated with wicker furniture, and light, fuel and drinking water are furnished. The only thing to be provided is the food at the commissary stores.

"The servant question is to the front in Panama as elsewhere, and the experienced housekeepers have to train their servants. That will be one of the questions that will come up in the household departments of the new clubs. The servants are all colored. The native cooking is too oily to suit our tastes, but the servants do well after they are trained. Some of the younger married women have domestic tragedies before their servants have been properly educated.

"One of these tragedies happened to one of the colony of four young married women who with their husbands are at Camp Elliott, where the marines are stationed. Her mother, who lives at Cristobal, the Atlantic side of the isthmus, had sent her a big porterhouse steak, some fresh green lettuce and tomatoes. You must know that, like the experiences of the governors of North and South Carolina, it is a long time between steaks on the isthmus. This one had come from the States, and it was a treasure.

"I never was very fond of examining raw meat," the young woman said in telling the story, "but I assure you we almost caressed that steak."

"She took it to the kitchen and told the cook that it was to be served for dinner and left her to give out invitations. Such dainties as that are not to be eaten alone. Directions for the cooking were to be given later, but at 11 o'clock the mistress went into the kitchen on another errand and discovered to her horror that the precious steak, the lettuce and the tomatoes were all in a pot together boiling hard.

"The poor young bride sat down and wept, then telephoned for her husband, who came up and rescued the half cooked dinner, but too late.

"And I was going to send you a leg of lamb," said the mother of the bride as she heard the story, "and now I don't dare."

"One little woman said at a club meeting, after they had been well organized, speaking to one of the officers: "You don't know what this club means to me. I had been here two months, and I did not know any one. Then I received the card inviting me here. Now I know you all, you all speak to me, and when I go to the commissary—every one goes to the commissary for supplies—there is always some one I know to talk with there, and now I feel as though I wanted to stay here always."

Miss Boswell left New York on Sept. 7, reaching her destination on Sept. 13. Arriving on the isthmus, she set about her work. The organization was completed in the five weeks Miss Boswell was on the isthmus. The eight clubs, which are known by the towns in which they are located, are the Gorgona, Culebra, Empire, Cristobal, Gatun, Paraiso, Pedro Miguel and Ancon. The federation, which is making arrangements to join the General Federation of Women's Clubs of the United States, is called the Canal Zone Federation of Women's Clubs. The women of the smaller towns join the larger town clubs.

"There are four departments in the clubs," said Miss Boswell—"home, education, philanthropy and literature and music together. Under those heads we can cover almost everything. Under the first department nurses from the hospitals will give instruction in home nursing, and the women are also greatly interested in gardening and beautifying their houses. They are interested in providing better educational facilities for their children, and under the education head comes personal work, and the study of Spanish will be undertaken in the clubs."

Mrs. George W. Goethals, wife of the chairman of the canal commission, is president. Mrs. Lorin C. Collins is the first vice president and will be the chief worker.

CARD PARTY PRIZES.

Novelties For Dining Room Acceptable Presents For Housekeepers.

"My turn for the next euchre? What on earth am I going to get for prizes?" is frequently the despairing thought of the card club member when she learns that she is to be the hostess at the next fortnightly meeting. She smiles pleasantly and assumes a shall-be-so-glad-to-see-you-all expression, while her mind skips to maids, dishes, tables, chairs, refreshments, and lingers with horror on—prizes.

In reality it is a simple matter to provide prizes for a simple afternoon euchre or bridge party. There are always so many novelties coming to hand, some expensive, some inexpensive, that it should be an easy task for a card party hostess to select a few little suitable articles that will please her fellow members. If she would only wander through the shops with a view toward choosing some novelties that she herself would like, she would surely succeed in securing a few that would appeal to the taste of her partners.

For the woman who keeps house there is nothing more acceptable than any kind of little novelties for her dining room. The accompanying sketch shows a number of these which would be appreciated for prizes, with the prices ranging from 10 cents to $12.

The holders for a vichy or a pickle bottle are in sterling silver in open-work design and will serve to make commonplace looking bottles of more decorative value. A leaf shaped plate is exceptionally dainty. It is of white china with the five lobes of the maple leaf and a pretty ornamentation of pink rosebuds.

There is a plank for fish, set in a pierced nickel dish, which is not alone useful, but is an ornament for the well fitted out dinner table.

YOUR COOK'S TEMPER.

Never Permit Her to Slam Dishes and Look Like an Angry Pirate.

A cross, ill natured servant should never be retained after having once exhibited her temper.

It is better to have a peaceful atmosphere in the home and to do one's own scrubbing and cooking than to be at sword's point with some tyrant of the kitchen.

When employing a housemaid or cook explain the work exactly as it is. Don't make it appear too easy.

If there are inconveniences, tell about them beforehand. If the man of the family is likely to be late for dinner three nights a week, put that unpleasantness before the applicant so she will know what to expect. Explain that such annoyances are part of the work for which she is paid.

The woman who permits a servant to flounce around and slam dishes and look like an angry pirate ought to be bullied by her maid.

The woman who is mistress of her home will stand that sort of thing just about half a minute or time in which to catch her breath for a fine burst of oratory.

Treat your servant with extreme kindness, but don't permit her to run the house.

That's your privilege and your pleasure and sometimes your despair.

An Autumn Dessert.

As grapes are one of the fruits of the month, try them in an ice. Bruise stemmed grapes and place over the fire until scalding hot, then turn into a cheesecloth bag and let the juice drip.

GRAPE ICE.

For one pint boil together one pint of water and one cupful of sugar for three minutes, then set away until cold. Add the grape juice and two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and freeze. This may be turned into a sherbet by the addition, when half frozen, of the white of an egg whipped to a stiff meringue with one tablespoonful of sifted powdered sugar. Pack and let stand for a couple of hours before serving.

INVITE A TEST

Johnson's Ask Catarrh Sufferers to Try Hyomei on Their Guarantee

F. B. Johnson & Company invite all who suffer from any form of catarrhal troubles to get a Hyomei outfit from them with their absolute guarantee that if it does not give perfect satisfaction, the money will be refunded upon request.

There is no other treatment for catarrh that in any way resembles Hyomei, none gives such quick curative results and lasting satisfaction, no medicine that can take its place, none that can be sold on a guarantee like this, to refund the money unless it cures.

Catarrh is a germ disease and can be cured only by breathing Hyomei, so that the most remote air cells in the nose, throat and lungs are reached by its antiseptic-healing powers. In this way all catarrhal germs are killed, the irritated mucous membrane is healed and catarrh is driven from the system.

This wonderful medicated air treatment does not drug and derange the stomach, but is breathed through a little pocket inhaler that goes with every dollar outfit.

The usual way in which F. B. Johnson & Company sell Hyomei attests their confidence in the remedy.

IT'S ALRIGHT

To get what you call for when you step into a store, but when we know we have a remedy that has proven a success, and can truthfully recommend it to you, do you think it is very harmful for us to show it?

THEY CALL IT SUBSTITUTING

But at the same time, we know that RAYMOND REMEDIES are much better and less harmful than a great many that are advertised today.

The Girl

Who's Growing Fast

Needs a coat extra full and generous so as to give her real service for two seasons.

This result is achieved in the line of coats we are showing for this Fall's wear. They are from the famous "WOOL-TEX" factory and the guarantee of two seasons' satisfactory wear given by these celebrated makers stands back of every garment bearing the Wooltex label.

These coats come with double yoke back and front, protecting the wearer against danger from cold—sickness. She'll stay comfortable in one of these natty coats no matter what the thermometer says.

The styles are charmingly youthful in their many designs, and the tailoring equal to that of any ladies' coat.

Come in and examine this fine showing. You will miss the best there is unless you see these "WOOLTEX" coats for growing girls.

Prices From $5 to $15

Ladies' "Wooltex" Cloaks

Marchioness style—Long loose cloaks with extra full skirts, perfect fitters around collar and shoulders.

Bellemore style—Long fitted cloak. Very swell garment for those ladies who can wear them. They are perfect fitters.
